Reminder of the Month:

The Prophet (ﷺ) said: "Fasting in the winter is the easy prize."

It was reported by Ahmad (4/335) with a chain authenticated by al-Albani in as-Silsilah as-Sahihah (1922)

Ibn Rajab al-Hanbali : "And the meaning of it being an easy prize is that it is a prize obtained without any battle or effort or hardship. So, the owner of this prize has been given it as a favour without any effort on his part."

He also mentioned, "Winter is the best season for the believer because Allah strengthens his practice in it by making worship easy for him.

This is because in winter, the believer can fast during the day with ease without suffering from hunger and thirst. The days are short and cold, and he therefore doesn't feel the hardship of fasting. As for praying at night in the winter due to its long nights, one can have his share of sleep and then get up to pray afterwards and recite all that he usually recites of the Qurān while he has had enough sleep.

So, he can combine between the sleep that he needs and the usual amount of recitation of the Qurān that he completes in a day.

So, he fulfils the interests of both his religion and the comfort of his body." Lata'if al-Ma'arif (p. 276).
